WORK EXPERIENCE

September 2019 – / London, UK

Research officer, International Inequalities Institute (III) at the London School of Economics and Political Science.

- I am working on three research lines to develop new economic and social well-being measures in emerging countries. These research lines are: i) forward-looking measures such as vulnerability to poverty and economic insecurity; ii) spatial measures of inequality, such as the geography of opportunity; iii) labour market development measures such as quality of employment. The latter is part of the British Academy project: "Measuring the Quality of Employment (QoE) in Middle-Income Countries".

Supervisor: Kirsten Sehnbruch, British Academy Global Professor and Distinguished Policy Fellow at the III at the LSE.

August 2022 – December 2022/ London, UK

Independent Consultant, International Labour Organization ILO. Lima.

- I analysed the incidence of working poverty in six Latin American countries.
- Supervisor: Roxana Maurizio, Regional Specialist on Labour Economics for Latin America and the Caribbean.

November 2017 – May 2018/ London, UK

Independent Consultant, Organisation for Economic Co-Operation and Development OECD. Paris.

- I supported the chapter “Income dynamics and income mobility over the life course” in the OECD book “A Broken Social Elevator? How to Promote Social Mobility”.

Supervisor: Céline Thévenot, Policy Analyst, Directorate for Employment, Labour and Social Affairs, Jobs and Income Division, OECD.

- I reviewed the existing academic and policy literature related to inheritance tax in OECD countries.

Supervisor: Sebastian Königs, Economist, Directorate for Employment, Labour and Social Affairs, Jobs and Income Division, OECD.

October 2013 / Boston, USA – December 2016/ London, UK

Independent Consultant, Inter-American Development Bank IADB. Washington DC.

- Survey methodology advisor for Social Security Observatory of Latin America and Caribbean to propose a new panel design for the Longitudinal Social Protection Survey in Latin American countries.
- Survey methodology advisor for the IDB regional project to enhance the use of longitudinal surveys in Latin American countries.

Supervisor: Lucia Madrigal, Labour Market and Social Security Division, IADB.

- Consultant for the project “Ecuador and Paraguay National Social Security Panel Survey”
- Survey methodology advisor, which includes sample design, guard the quality of the data, and supervise all the steps of the survey implementation.

Supervisor: Emma Águila. Former Director of the Centre for Latin American Social Policy, RAND.

June 2005 – June 2012/ Santiago, Chile

Founder and Director, Social Observatory Centre at Universidad Alberto Hurtado, Chile

- I founded the Social Observatory Centre in 2005, which became the second largest survey centre in Chile.
- Managed more than 80 complex and demanding high profile projects financed primarily by public organizations (Ministries and National Secretaries/Departments), NGOs and International Agencies.

Supervisor: Fernando Montes. Former President of Universidad Alberto Hurtado

RESEARCH GROUPS MEMBER

- Quality of Employment group in International Inequalities Institute at LSE.
